GRAVEL MINE OWNERS TO FIGHT P. G. E. ORDER

At a meeting of owners of gravel mines along the Bear River Wednesday afternoon in the National Hotel, ways and means of meeting the crisis precipitated by the notice to cease turning tailings into the Bear River, served last week by the Pacific Gas and Electric company, were discussed.

None of the properties served with this notice, namely, Libr tey Hill, Remington Hill, You Bet, or Sailor Flat, it developed, have ceased their mining operations. The owners proposed to throw the onus of stopping the mining entirely upon the P. G. & E., which intimated in its order to cease, that it would resort to injunctions to stop them.

The mine owners, however, stated that if it comes to a battle in the courts, they are prepared to make a determined fight all along the line. They intimated that they will—

1. Bring to the attention of the State Health Department, unsanitary conditions which have resulted from the influx of snipers along the upper river and the use of the water shed for pasturage of large numbers of cattle and sheep.

2. Obtain a court ruling on the guarantee given owners of claims of non-interference with mining operations, when, in 1913, the Pacific Gas & Electric company, at reduced rates, purchased rights-of-way from mine owners to convey surplus water down the Bear River, using that stream as a ditch for augmenting their supply down stream.

Other steps to dissuade the P. G. & E. from attempting to put an end to sluicing on gravel claims, were debated.

The P. G. & E., in serving the notice upon the mine operators stated that domestic and irrigation users of the water supplied by it from Bear River, in Pennryn, Loomis, Rocklyn, Roseville and Lincoln, had complained that the water, due to it's carrying silt and colloidial coloring matter, was unfit for use. It is claimed, however, by mining nterests by the installation of proper settling basins this nuisance could be largely abated.

SKEET CLUB MEMBERS TO SHOOT FOR DINNER

There will be shooting by three teams next Sunday at the Skeet range on the Richards ranch. The teams will shoot for a dinner, the two low teams paying for the feed.

The teams are to be averaged by changing members and in this way all will be on a more equal basis, as the good and the poor shots will be averaged up.

Skeet shooters are sending an invitation to any and all who wish to get in on the shooting to bring their guns and drive out as there will be plenty of room for everyone.

Last Sunday's shooting was above the average and Curtis Clarke made an almost perfect score.

GOLD MINERS TO MEET TOMORROW

At the request of the Gold Mining Association of America, Harry Sears, president of the Mining Association of California, has called a meeting of gold mining producers, operators and developers for 10 o'clock Saturday morning, April 7, at the Auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, Sacramento. The meeting is to approve a gold mining code and elect representatives to attend a national gold mining code conference of all gold mining states and territories at Denver, Colorado, on May 18.

Last September the National Recovery Administration notified the Mining Association of California, that a code for gold mining was required. To carry out a national plan, the Gold Mining Association of America was organized in San Francisco on October 24, 1933, endorsed by delegates from 10 western states. Since then the Association has been cooperating with the mining organizations and members of all the gold producing states, preparing codes and gathering data for presentation at Washington. This will culminate in the meeting to be held in Denver.

William Henry, of this city, had a bad fall Monday, dislocating one shoulder. The injury was treated by Dr. A. H. Tickell.

An Open Letter To Nugget Readers

Dear Nugget Readers:

THIS is Newspaper Appreciation Week throughout the Nation. The publishers of the Nevada City Nugget ,under the mantle of this national event, take occasion to address an open letter of somewhat intimate nature to the readers of this newspaper.

The Nugget is seven years old. It's files reveal the fact that it has always been constructive force, fighting shoulder to shoulder with the leadership of Nevada City and County for those things that make life more worth living here and now.

Under the management which took over the newspaper over a year ago, several definite steps toward making it a better paper were determined upon. Among other things, it was decided to publish the paper twice a week even though this step would not bring anything like commensurate returns over a long period of time. It was also determined to add to the news features of the paper and add to its volume.

The Monday edition of the paper now carries eight pages, a page of funnies for the youngsters, a continued story by an excellent author, state and national news reviews, and, as a matter of course, all the local news. The Friday paper, now six pages, will soon be converted into eight pages.

Among other news features, since mining is the basic and primary industry, the Nugget has instituted a monthly review of mining activities throughout the county. This has greatly increased over-the-counter sales and has brought in literally hundreds of new subscribers.

The result of these innovations has been a quickened interest among both subscribers and advertisers.

It has been the policy of the Nugget to defend public officials of the city or county against slanderoous accusations, to correct mistaken conceptions regarding their activities and to support them whole-heartedly in every constructive course adopted. The practice of maligning public servants, particularly those who serve for the honor of serving, is vicious and reprehensible.

In dealing with crime and the elements of disorder, the NUGGET confines itself usually to a bare statement of those facts which are alleged in court or official documents. In the case of drunken driving offenses, however, the fullest possible details are published, regardless of who the offender is, in order that this growing menace to life and property may receive the public attention and condemnation that it merits.

In its efforts to aid the constructive elements of this community, the Nugget has supported and advocated the municipal park and swimming pool, which is now so near to realization, the plan to build a band stand for the Nevada high school band, improvement in school buildings and facilities,, the movement to build a Boy Scout lodge, the maintainance of an active and progressive Chamebr of Commerce, the Ski Club activities, and the Nevada City Airport.

The Nugget has given a welcome to every modern innovation made by our local merchants, has thrown its columns open freely to promote activities of the Nevada City Fire department, and has tendered its services to promote harmony and teamwork in all progressive community activities.

On its business side, the Nugget offers a service. The publishers feel that they are able to serve well any business or institution that buys its space. It seeks to give it's service on no other basis. The old idea of the old-time editor, publishing a small city weekly, was that the community owed him its support,, regardless, perhaps of the poor quality of the sheet. This outgrown and medieval concept has no place in any modern office.

Nowadays the publisher of a newspaper is on all fours with the merchant. Either he sells his advertising space at a profit and thereby serves the business community, or like the merchant who fails to sell his wares (perhaps through lack of advertising) he gives place in due time to somebody who can.

It is the province of the Nugget to convey the news, and especially the local news, to its readers; to advertise all legitimate business; to aid those enterprises which build up the city and county physically and spiritually; and to advocate those measures which bring the community an ever greater measure of security and happiness.

Briefly summarized, the Nugget seeks to bea good neighbor, serviceable and dependable, its editorial conduct and business policies reflecting the same standards that govern all good citizens in their public and private relations.

In response to an invitation by the Nevada City Red Cross committee, which wishes to be represented at the convention of the American Red Cross in Washington, R. R. Goyne, local chairman, yesterday received the following telegram from Harry L. COURT OF HONOR FOR BOY SCOUTS

Nevada City Boy Scouts held a Court of Honor Thursday evening with Scout Executive H. Ricksecker, of Auburn, Miles Coughlin, scoout officer, Clifford Merriam, Cub Scout Master, and Edd Addington, Scout Master, in attendance.

Star badges were awarded to Dick Tuttle and Bob Small, while Fan Robbins was given the last badge in his work.

Plans were made for an overnight hike to the Tobiasson ranch, northwest of Nevada City. Many of the younger boys are preparing to make this trip.

Patrol leaders met at the home of Edd Addington this week and an effort was made to bring up the efficiency of the troop.

The annual trip to Camp Pahatsi was given up this year on account of the lack of snow.

At present, several of the Boy Scouts, are interested in making the Yukon packs under the supervision of Scout Master Edd Addington. These packs are to carry equipment on their hikes.

L. D. Capelli, a resident of Colgate, suffered an injury to his eye while cutting wood Tuesday. A piece of steel lodge in it. He was brought to the Nevada City Sanitarium, where Dr. A. H. Tickell treated him.

ORIENTAL SHIPS $38,460 BULLION OUTPUT FOR FEB.

The Oriental Gold Star mine, of Alleghany, reports, a shipment of $38,460 in gold bullion under date of March 1st., which represents practically one month's production. This information was received from B. C. Austin, engineer for the company. It shows a considerable increase over the January output.

The Oriental has been operating since last October, when a rich strike was made in the mine. Production so far has resulted from development work, and stoping operations will probably start about the first of May.

A large tonnage of low grade commercial ore is being mined and developed in a section that has been diamond drilled and then partially opened by cross-cuts and drifts on the 1,300 foot level in addition to regularly mined ore.

YELLOWJACKETS TO PLAY BALL IN SACTO.

Nevada City's Yellowjackets will play their third basketball game on Saturday afternoon with the Grant Uniou high school at Sacramento.

Coach Barron is optimistic about the coming game next Saturday, as the team has practiced and is in

C. E. Clinch, retired business man of Grass Valley, and retiring supervisor for the NRA has been called upon by George Creel, State Director of the N. E. C., to assume the chairman ship of the NEC for Nevada County. Mr. Clinch has served very faithfully in the NRA and his services are fully appreciated by those who realize that he gave much time and care to the duties of the office.

Who Will Be May Day Queen Of Nevada City?

Who will wear the crown of Nevada City's May Queen for 1934?—This will remain a deep secret until April 27th when the sale of tickets by young ladies aspiring to the throne will be counted. Any of Nevada City's fair maids and they are all fair, attending school, grammar or high, are eligible to compete.

This year Mrs. Lyda Talbot is presenting her class of thirty pupils in a delightful program of beautifully costumed dances. A lovely feature will be the May Pole dance in which she is training 24 grammar school girls.

From the proceeds the fireman's hall fund will be benefited. The fire laddies are making every effort to erase the debt surrounding the Armory hall, and are counting on the Nevada City people to do their part The public is invited to come out and enjoy a big evening for a small sum and thereby help the good cause.

It is to be hoped that many will compete for the Queen's throne. She will be presented to the audience in a most novel manner. Any Queen would be proud to boast the court with which she will be surrounded. The Queenly apparel will consist of a robe designed in Empire style over which will be worn a mantel of green. This costume will be made for and presented to the successful candidate so that if she so wishes, she may preserve it to be a reminder of her 1934 reign as Queen of our fair city. To merit this honor there is only one thing to do; sell tickets and lots of them.

Mrs. Lester Gregory has kindly consented to handle the ticket sale, which is no small undertaking. The committee is most grateful to her. No ticket will be given out until Saturday afternoon at Mrs. Gregory's home at 418 Factory street, next to the Ed Baker home. This will give all a chance to be out of school and enable them to receive tickets at the same time.

The girls that enter in this race for Queen, will not only gain valuable experience for themselves, but will aid a splendid cause.

ECONOMY ORDER NOW HANDICAPS POSTOFFICE

An order from the U. S. Postmaster General laying off Substitute Dean Hatch for reasons of economy resulted in the closing of the postoffice windows yesterday during the distribution of mail. Hatch went on as substitute following the retirement of Mr. Pascoe and the promotion of L. A. Hiscox, former substitute to regular duties. Hatch retains his ranking, however, and may be restored to his job about July 1.

SUNDAY SERVICE ON DEER CREEK

The voice of the minister of Christian faith will be heard in the old Stockdale orchard on Deer Creek west of Nevada City, next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Captain G. H. Murray, of the Salvation Army staff, of Grass Valley, is expected to speak near the orchard spring there. He will bring a group of Army singers and musicians. Members of other organizations may augment the service, the invitation to do so having been extended.

Should rain fall the service is to be indoors. The day is to be inaugurated with open air Sunday school at 10:30 a. m., with basket dinner following. There should be a good attendance as this is a beautiful spot with the apple orchard now in full blossom.

Assayer Don C. Billick is installing another furnace and remodeling his assay office on lower Commercial street, in order to take care of the increased trade.

Bert Austtin, mining engineer, came up from San Francisco yesterday and with a group of mining men visited the Idaho-Maryland mine. While here he called on his mother, Mrs. Ella M. Austin, county superintendent of schools.

City Council Hastens Work On Swim Pool

The City Council during the past few days has visited Placerville and Lincoln and inspected the swimming pools there to see if any mstakes in their structure had been made which might be avoided in Nevada City's new swimming pool, and to adopt any advantages these pools might offer.

The members of the council also visited the Gladding-McBean pottery works in Lincoln to ascertain the cost of putting in a tile scum trough along the edge of the perimeter of the pool. If funds permit the council will give the pool this ornamental and useful finishing touch.

It is proposed that the pool be 50 feet wide by 125 feet long. In addition to the swimming pool, the council hopes to be able to construct a shallow wading pool for the very young citizens.

At last night's meeting of the council, the report of Edw. Uren, city engineer, respecting the location and character of the soil for the pool was considered. He reports that eight test holes have been sunk on the site and that the ground is very hard and firm, offering an ideal soil structure for the placement of the cement walls and floor for the pool.

Steps were taken at last night's meeting to advertise for bids for the construction of the pool. It is proposed to hasten the project, since there is every prospect of an early summer, and the youth of the city will soon be yielding to the annual spring urge for a good swim.

The council last night gave first reading to a new closing ordinance which, if passed will put a stop to all liquor sales after midnight. At present a number of all night restaurants which also sell liquor have occasioned a great deal of complaint. Drunkenness has notably increased and the night officer often has a hectic shift "pickin' 'em up and throwin' 'em in." The council proposes to stop some of this drunkenness at its source. The new ordinance would exempt all restaurants from the midnight closing requirement, but would shut off the liquor supply at that hour.

Appleseed Johnnie

BY T. C. TUCKER

The winning of the west was so colored with romantic deeds of heroism and devotion, that we are prone to overlook some of the sordid accomplishments of the greatest human migration of modern times.

And it is not bacause we wish to minimize any of the heroic deeds nor the sufferings of that period that we should pause to consider the lessons to be drawn from the exploitation of that era as compared with the sound development which also accompanied it.

The story of the buffalo hunter and the ruthless destruction of the vast herds of bison, which at one time made the earth thunder from the Mississippi to the Rockies, is a sad record of exploitation. Of course, this buffalo hunter had to provide heads and robes to meet a commercial demand and provide a picturesque interlude to the real development of the resources of the West.

But it was the most ruthless form of destruction for temporary profit and it is something which we would like to forget, because there is nothing back of it except human greed for early and easy profits.

But even before the time of the buffalo hunter into the wilds of the West went the pioneer, with only one purpose, and that was the establishment of a home as the only sound unit of organized society.

Even this pioneer had a predecessor and it is from his career that we prefer to derive the moral of this little story.

Known only to history as Appleseed Johnie, this strange character wandered well ahead of the white migration through tribes of hostile Indians, and all of the dangers of the wilderness, with more saftey than one can now travel the paved highway.

In every clearing of the vast course through which he traveled, Appleseed Johnnie planted apple seeds, and when the home-seeking pioneers came they experienced the strange sensation of finding blossoming or bearing apple trees in the midst of the primeval forests which they cleared to make their homes.

This quaint character left a mark on the West and a contribution for which millions of dollars might well have been paid, but it is a matter of record that he never received a cent for this work. His work was development in the best sense of that term, and that is why history glorifies his memory while it reprobates the memory of the slaughterers of the buffalo. Apparently development at first frequently pays no dividends, while exploitation just as frequently shows early profits, but in the long run there is no questiton as to which is the more valuable, not only to the individual but to society.

CAMPTONVILLE APRIL RAINFALL 3.79 INCHES

CAMPTONVILLE, April 5.—The monthly weather report for the month of March as compiled by Elmer S. R. Hall, local weather observer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, shows only 3.79 inches of precipitation for the month, the greatest in 24 hours being 1.68 on the 28th., hail on the 24th., with no snow recorded. Electrical storms took place on the 23rd. and 24th.

The maximum temperature for the month was 80 degrees on the 9th., with a minimum of 36 degrees on the 1st. and 31st. The normal rainfall for the season is still way short, and a three day north wind the fore part of April, took away much of the good brought by the recent storm.

HOMELAND OF THE WEST

Spring comes across the mountains
In festive garments gay,
The golden sun above us
Illumines each smiling day;
The flowers blossom gaily,
The wild birds sing together;
And this, my lads and lassies,
Is California weather.

Dim skies of grey November,
And cloud wrack o'er the main,
Nature's heart responsive
To sunlight after rain;
Life and joy awakening
In old earth's eager breast;
And this, my lads and lassies,
Is autumn in the west.

Tapestries of color
On upland, slopes and down,
Fragrant breezes stealing
Thru the noisy town;
Trees in fairy raiment—
Wild geese on the wing;
And this, my lads and lassies,
Is California spring.

Mountains, vales and forests,
Lakes and laughing streams,
Realms where romance lingers,
Trails where memory dreams;
Shores of magic beauty,
Towering snow clad crests,
And this is California,
Our homeland of the west.

A. MERRIAM CONNER.

Attorney and Mrs. J. M. McMahon, and her brother, Mr. Barrett, of Downieville, Sierra county, were Nevada City visitors yesterday.

COLLEGE COSTS IN CALIFORNIA LESS THAN EAST

Universities and colleges of California, when studied on the basis of comparative costs of education to the student, are competing with European institutions of learning and not with Eastern schools, a survey conducted by Bank of America shows.

Average expenses of students in California's universities are well below costs of attending eastern universities, the bank's survey discloses, but are only slightly below the cost of attending a European university, after inclusion of transportation expense.

In the case of universitites limited to men and coeducational institutions, it would pay an Easterner to follow Horace Greely's advice and "Go West" to college, for the average costs survey proves that he could save his railroad fare.

Average minimum cost of attending a typical California coeducational university, computed on the showing of three leading institutions of this state, is $873 for the college year, as against $1027 for three similar Eastern universities. In the bracket of schools limited to men students, California's minimum cost is $850 as against $1100 for the East. Minimum cost is determined by tuition charges and expense of books, board and room.

The student who elects to study abroad, finds that his living expenses are lower than the average universities in the United States, but, of course, must incur the extra expense of travel.

Average cost of tuition and other fees, texts, board and room at Oxford, England; University of Paris, France; and University of Berlin, Germany; amounts to $737 for the college year. Combined cost of rail and water transportation from California, however, raises the amount to $962, a total under the average minimum shown for attendance of Eastern colleges, but above the cost in California.

CAMPTONVILLE STUDENTS IN ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE

CAMPTONVILLE, April 5.—The annual pilgrimage to the cross of the Camptonville Branch, of the Marysville Union high school, was made Friday, when the school, accompanied by the teacher, Mrs. Kate Hope Livingston, and several visitors, journeyed to the top of Pendola's Hill to the large white cross that they erected several years ago. The pilgrimage was accompanied by an impressive ceremony, in which the students inscribe their name upon a lead plate, consecrated by an evergreen, repeated with the motto, "I wish to be of service to the world," the purpose being to inspire the students to put forth an effort for a definite purpose to be of service to society.

The record of all the graduates from the local branch high school indicates that the students have gone forth from their mother school with the purpose at heart to be serviceable and make something of themselves. This small school has a higher record of students continuing on and completing their education than any other of it's class.

During the ceremony, a brief talk was given by James L. Joubert, a student of the Sacramento Junior College. Following the ceremony, a delightful lunch was served and very much enjoyed by those participating. The following were present: Misses Bobby Cook, Rose Marie Smart Gladys Chatfield, Margaret Stoddard, Geraldine Beach, Jessie Smart, Hazel Smart, Edna Merrill, James L. Joubert, Livingston Cleman, Billy Pendola, Jimmie Halkyard, Woodrow Wilson, Charles L. Wilson, Jr., and two friends, and Mrs. Kate Hope Livingston.

HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPERS

(By WNU Service)

Before the gold rush, before California became a state, before there were cities of size in the western territory, printers and editors marched hand-in-hand with pioneers into this state and set up their presses.

Many a tiny ship that bravely plowed the waters around the horn from New York to California carried a printing press. Many of the prairie schooners carried fonts of type.

California's first newspaper was printed on paper which was intended to wrap cigars. It was run off on a Mexican hand press that had been left at Monterey. The type was dirty and twisted. There were no W's but for all that the paper came out.

Known as the "Californian," the first newspaper saw the light of day in Monterey, on August 15, 1846. Its printer was Robert Semple, who also was the first president of a state constitutional convention. Its editor was the Rev. Walter Colton.

Lack of W's in the Spanish alphabet didn't bother the printer and editor too much. They put V's together as long as the V's lasted and then they used U's.

Their thoughts, marshalled forth in the prospectus, page one, column one, (there were only two columns) weren't so different from many that appear today. In part they said:

"We shall maintain freedom of speech and the press, and those great principles of religious toleration, which allows every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

"We shall advocate such a system of public education as will bring the means of a good practical education to every child in California."

Following Semple and Colton to California was Samuel Brannan, a Mormon, who brought a complete printing outfit from New York by boat and began publishing the "California Star" in San Francisco in October 1846. This paper was combined in January 1849 with the Monterey paper as "Alta Californian."

That was the first newspaper merger in California, a step in the progress of publishing in this state that has been aped many thousands of times since.

The "Alta Californian" did a land office business at the outset. An historian says that "Its receipts for advertising alone often ran as high as $2,000 a day."

After making a fortune out of the paper it was sold for $125,000 gold in 1850.

Brannan picked a good time to get out. More and more papers were coming into the field. Some of them have lived. Many died. Some were reborn only to die again.

Editors would start publication one day and go after gold the next, leaving equipment stand where it was.

San Francisco had five morning newspapers at one time—the Chronicle, Herald, Town Talk, Alta and Globe.

The first evening newspaper in California was the Picayune, born August 3, 1850. Died while in infancy.

The Watchman was California's first religious paper and the California Illustrated Times, the first picture paper. Both were born in 1850. May their ages rest in peace.

Editors of the early days in San Francisco had a taste for weird names. Out came "Satan's Bassoon" to be followed by "The Present and Future," "Star of the West," "Uncle Sam," "Tam-Tam," and "The Phare."

Sacramento's first daily was the Union. It was first published March 15, 1851, and has never missed a day of publication since. Its record is the oldest in the west.

Los Angeles' first newspaper was the Star, published first, May 17, 1851. Santa Barbara first read the Gazette May 24, 1855. Santa Cruz was given the Pacific Sentinel in June 1856.

By that date newspapers were common in California. Every community in the state had her editor—sometimes more. Some of the editors starved for principles. Some waxed fat for a time on public favor and then were killed in a duel or grew weary of the hum-drum life and started an editorial campaign which spelled death to the paper.

Hand printing presses gave way to power. Hand set type gave way to linotype machines. Telegraph operators were displaced by the "iron mike" or teletype machines. Everywhere the urge for speeding up communications came into vogue with advancing years.

Press associations were formed to gather the world wide news, condense it and send it by wires to daily newspapers in all parts of the world.

Feature services were born—those to supply pictures, those to supply comic strips, those to supply all of the various material that now goes into our newspapers of today.

Changes have been rapid in the newspaper business. Color printing and rotogravure printing have been the newest stages. Editors predict greater changes for the future—a machine that will allow a reporter to set type as he punches his typewriter keyboard is one of these.

As fast as ideas have come into the newspaper publishing business has come the expressed need for more and more newspapers until today nearly every little hamlet has its weekly and every city its several dailies.

Down thru the years, California has seen more newspapers come and go than any state in the union, save New York. There are some 700 newspapers of various types published today in California. Many of the editors are still carrying out the traditions of their predecessors in the days of '49—freedom of speech and press, religious freedom, public education of children.

BANK LOAN GAIN SHOWS BUSINESS ACTIVITY RISING

Reflecting the upturn in Pacific Coast business and the attending increase in demand for credit, Bank of America's loans and discounts were expanded by $5,347,692 during January, February and the first five days of March. The increase is particularly significant as it represents a turning point for bank loans on the Pacific Coast, which have been contracting during recent years.

Substantial increases in total deposits, total resources, investments in government bonds and in undivided profits are other highlights shown by the March 5th statement of Bank of America N. T. & S. A. and Bank of America (California).

Deposits of the banks on March 5, totaled $867,214,760, a gain of $41,162,892 since the first of the year. Resources, totaling $1,041,288.175, increased $35,611,887 during the same period.

Undivided profits of Bank of America increased $1,466,602 between January 1 and March 5, indicating that profits during a period of only slightly more than two months covered 46 per cent of dividend requirements on capital stock for the entire year.

The bank increased it's holdings of securities materially during the January 1—March 5 period, adding $24,652,794 to it's investment in government bonds and increasing total security investments by $28,683. Cash increased $4,702,465, bringing the total to $111,190,612 as of March 5.

C. C. YOUNG IN GOVERNOR RACE

BY C. C. YOUNG

I shall be a candidate for Governor at the approaching election. Because I appreciate fully the tremendous difficulties which this office must face during the next four years, my decision has not been a hasty one. Many have been kind enough to urge that my previous term as Governor has especially fitted me to serve in the present critical emergency. If this is a general belief among the voters, I feel that I am justified in seeking their support.

Today the affairs of California state government are in a deplorable and chaotic condition. At the same time, never has there been such desperate need among the masses of our people. Except for temporary Federal aid, hundreds of thousands of our citizens face continued unemployment through no fault of their own. Our state institutions are over crowded, with the result that many of their helpless wards are sleeping on the floor. Our social agencies, our humanitarian activities, our schools—everything that makes for human values should at this crisis receive the State's full support.

To meet these needs is the duty of a humane and progressive government. Until they are met we cannot have a truly prosperous State; for California was one of the first in the Union to prove that progressivism and prosperity go hand in hand. Yet at this time of our greatest necessity we face a bankrupt state treasury and an over-taxed people.

Our state government cannot longer be permitted to continue insolvent. It's budget must again be balanced. It's present enormous deficit must be wiped out. Wastage and extravagance of every kind must be stopped. With a situation of the gravest emergency in our economic life, a government which the people can trust has a most vital part in the processes of restoration.

If the voters approve, I desire to give the best that is in me toward helping to bring back such a government to California. With the cooperation of all loyal Californians, I believe it can be done.

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Flush out the impurities and excess acids that cause irratation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after flushing and you get your regular sleep.--Guaranteed by DICKERMAN DRUG STORE, Nevada City, California-B85

FEATHER RIVER ROAD FINISHED BY '36 IS GOAL

Completion of the Feather River highway by July, 1936, to be urged by a rally of good roads leaders at Oroville on April 27, will require early action to secure funds so that additional contracts can be let during the present biennium. Certain bridges must be built earlier than originally planned in order to permit progress on an accelerated schedule and one of the bridges should be commenced by September of this year.

This is the purport of a statement by Earl Lee Kelly, Director of the State Department of Public Works, reviewing the present status of the work and indicating the changed program required for completion of the highway within two years.

"Owing to difficulty of access and necessity for construction of certain bridges to reach portions of the grading work on a forced schedule, the normal schedule of operations must be altered and a careful co-ordination of progress must be arranged," said Kelly. "This will necessitate, at an early date, before the close of the present biennium, additional contract work for which funds have not been budgeted."

DOG BAR BRIDGE WILL BE REPAIRED

The county supervisors concluded the April session Wednesday by inspecting the county farm and hospital. Later they inspected the Dog Bar bridge which apparently is badly in need of repairs. They learned that Placer county has agreed to provide material for the repairs necessary and that the CCC forces will perform the labor. The bridge is close to Ponderorsa Way and very near the county line.

What Ho, this is Newspaper Week!
And no one, I'm sure will refuse
To utter Three Cheers and a Tiger
For the Laddies who publish the News.
Consider Ye Editor now,
And every Man Jack of the Crew;
Remember, both early and late,
They are working like beavers for you.

So Cheers for the Newspaper World,
And All Those who keep it alive;
Not merely for seven short days,
But for Each of the three sixty five.

Newspaper Week

We always entertain a lively sense of appreciation for the Newspaper World at large, but just at this time we wish to pay a special tribute to the newspapers of our community. The value of a lively and progressive newspaper to the life of a community can scarcely be over-estimated, and such an enterprise deserves the support and encouragement of every loyal citizen. The NEVADA COUNTY LUMBER COMPANY is indebted to the newspapers of the Twin Cities for many past courtesies, and it is a pleasure at this time to call a CHEERIO to the Editors, and to each member of their respective staffs. We wish the Newspapers of this community prosperity and an ever increasing influence.

Come on boys of the N. C. L. C.—give'em a hand!
